

June Koh makes Singapore National Team!

June Koh joined BRC in April of 2005 to train as a competitive boxer in hopes of making the National team in her home country of Singapore. In May of this year, June returned to Singapore to try out for the Singapore travel team. June made the team and three weeks later traveled to Viet Nam for her first international invitational.

“This is an amazing opportunity for June. She is a novice in the sport, and yet her skill level allows her to be competitive with even experienced international boxers,” commented BRC coach Christy Halbert, “With continued work she has the ability to do well in the sport.”

June was an important part of Team BRC. Some of her first BRC experiences included readying the facility for workouts when BRC opened its doors in July of 2005. June was part of a team that cleaned and painted every surface in the center. June also assisted BRC with electronic media and facility maintenance.

Coach Halbert said, “June is always positive and she has a good work ethic. She is a quick-learner, and I’m sure she will do well in Singapore. I’m proud of what June has accomplished in such a short period of time. All of us at BRC wish her the best. Our hope is that June continues to improve as a boxer, and reaches all her goals in the sport. We will continue to assist her in any we can.”

Female amateur boxers are not paid to represent their country in international competitions. Female amateur boxers typically hold full-time or part-time jobs that permit them to train the 20+ hours each week necessary to succeed as an Olympic-style boxer.
